Former Superintendent Dies After Rescue

Former Crawford AuSable Superintendent Fraser Dean suffered a heart attack and died moments after saving his two nieces from drowning in the Gulf of Mexico, according to a front page story in the Detroit News Sunday.

Dean, 51, was relaxing on the beach near Orange Beach, Ala., when he heard his nieces, 13 and 15 years old, yelling for help because the high surf was pulling them under. Dean went out and got the two girls to safety. Then he went out farther to get his 11-year-old son and a friend of his son. That's when Dean collapsed. Other adults helped pull the boys and Dean to shore.

Dean, school superintendent at Montrose, is survived by his wife Karen; daughter Mary; five sons, Stephen, Kevin, David, Noel, and B.J.; four brothers and four sisters. Services were held Tuesday at Good Shephard Catholic Church in Montrose.

Georgia-Pacific Expansion Proposal Topic for Meetings

Georgia-Pacific is planning to expand their Beaver Creek resin plant to include a formaldehyde manufacturing facility. Community meetings to discuss the proposed expansion will be held on Wednesday, April 5, at 7:30 p.m. at the Beaver Creek Township Hall, and on Thursday, April 6, at 7:30 p.m., at the Grayling Holiday Inn.

City Receives $2.5 Million For Sewer System

The City of Grayling has received a grant for nearly $2.5 million from the Environmental Protection Agency for the expansion of its sewer system.

A press release from Congressman Bill Schuette's office said that the $2,491,320 grant will be used for improvements and expansion to the existing aerated lagoons, a wastewater storage lagoon, spray irrigation system, monitoring wells, land, pump stations improvements, and forced main construction.

"I am very pleased that the Environmental Protection Agency has made this award to Grayling," said Congressman Schuette. "I know that many people have been working for a long period of time to secure funding which will upgrade the wastewater treatment plant."

"We have been working on this sewer expansion project since about 1976," said Jerry Morford, Grayling City Manager. He said that the study began as a joint venture with Grayling Township and the city of Grayling, to determine the needs of the area for the next 20 to 25 years, in terms of sewer capacity. Grayling Township was interested in protecting the groundwater by the elimination of individual septic tank systems, and Grayling was interested in improving the city's sewer capacity.

Morford said that Grayling's present lagoon capacity is 360,000 gallons per day. He said that the city is currently operating at 400,000 gallons per day, or roughly 10 percent over capacity. This means that the sewer system cannot retain the liquid in the oxidation ponds as long as desirable to get the maximum oxidation, and therefore discharges more into the environment through filtration into the groundwater. Morford said that to date, the city has not detected any groundwater pollution as a result of operating over capacity, but said that continuing to do so over a long period of time would eventually cause the system to fail.

"The new lagoon system is designed and will be constructed to accommodate approximately 550,000 gallons per day, said Morford. This is an increase of over 50 percent capacity.

"Total cost of the project will be in excess of $4 million," Morford stated. He said that Grayling is in the process of obtaining the remaining $1.5 million through a combination of Economic Development Administration funds, possible Farm Home Administration loans, proceeds of bond sales, and the use of local operation and maintenance revenues.

"Receiving this grant insures Grayling's ability to continue to provide water and sewer service to people who want to build within the city," said Morford.

Here's A Twist: Tax Money Returned to Property Owner

A wise man once said the only thing certain were death and taxes. A wiseman appealed Trout Unlimited's 1986 and 1987 property taxes to the Michigan Tax Tribunal and won a $12,405.19 judgement.

Now, 5 area educational and governmental agencies will be paying back the $12,405.19 they had collected from Crawford County's delinquent tax pre-payment system.

Agencies making repayment are the Crawford-AuSable School District, $9,073.25; Crawford County, $2,340.96; Grayling Township, $280.80; Kirtland Community College, $376.50; and C.O.O.R. Intermediate School District, $323.68.

Arnold Stancil, Grayling Township Supervisor, said that the tax tribunal judge ordered the exemption of four parcels of property along the mainstream of the AuSable and Barker Creek, and partial exemption of a fifth parcel. The four parcels are known as "Guide's Rest" and "Knight's Tract." Property value was reduced by about $170,000 on the parcels because of deed restrictions on the land.

The ordinance, presented to the commissioners at their March 14 meeting by James Cotant, attorney for the Crawford-Otsego Solid Waste Management Authority, was defeated by a 4 to 3 vote. Joseph Callewaert, Bill Coy, Bob McLachlan and Robert Nelson cast the no votes. Mary Harland, Jeanette Kitchen and William Ruddy voted yes.

Cotant explained that the ordinance was necessary to provide the landfill with a guaranteed source of income from tipping fees. He said that guaranteed funding was essential for both the sale of bonds to construct the authority's proposed incinerator and recycling center, and for the future repayment of the bonds.

Callewaert and Coy said that they were unprepared for the March 14 vote. Coy said that he had received his copy of the ordinance only two days before the meeting, and felt that the vote was premature.

"I did not feel that we had received sufficient information prior to the vote," Coy said.

"I felt as though I had not done my homework," said Callewaert. "I was unsure when the ordinance was to take effect, and what legal ramifications the ordinance would present to the county."

Child Sexual Abuse Increasing in Crawford County

Protect Our Children

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a two-part series on child abuse in Crawford County. Articles last week dealt with physical neglect and assistance available.)

By Irene Pettyjohn

"Crawford County has one of the highest rates of sexual abuse referrals per capita in the state," said Detective Jim Parker of the Crawford County Sheriff's Department. "We are up there with the top five counties."

"Seventy-five percent of all Criminal Sexual Conduct cases occurring in our county involve children too young to defend themselves," said David Sabin, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney. "Only about 25 percent involve children 12 years old or older."

"It has been my experience that sexual abuse referrals have been steadily increasing in Crawford County over the past five years," said Jim Lawless, Children's Protective Services Worker.

THE PROBLEM

In 1988, approximately 100 cases of sexual abuse and sexual exploitation were referred to the Sheriff's Department, and according to Parker, the officer assigned to investigate most sexual abuse referrals, nation-wide surveys have proven that these 100 referrals probably represent only about 1/3 of the actual abuses occurring to area children.

"The incidence of criminal sexual conduct in our county is no different than anywhere else," Parker said, "it is just that people do not think that it goes on in small communities. This is a serious misconception."

"Of the 100 referrals investigated by the Sheriff's Department, (similar referrals are investigated by the Grayling City Police Department and the State Police) between 50 and 55 investigations will be substantiated, and of those cases, about 30 cases will be actively pursued in the court system."

"Investigations close prematurely for a variety of reasons," said Parker. The two most prevalent causes are lack of cooperation from the parents, and victims, because of their young ages, refusing to continue the investigation. Police officers have the authority to investigate sexual abuse referrals with or without parental approval or cooperation; however, because pressure is often placed on the victim by the perpetrator or family members protecting the perpetrator, the child becomes frightened and refuses to talk, and the investigation ends.

"Some investigations are stopped," said Parker, "because the kid cannot take the pressure anymore, and it is decided that to continue the case would be detrimental to the child. Getting the case to court is the difficult part in every investigation," he said.

REFERRALS

The Crawford County Sheriff's Department receives most of its sexual abuse referrals from Children's Protective Services. State law requires that CPS Workers begin an initial investigation to obtain the basic facts of each referral within 24 hours, and refer the case on to a police agency within 72 hours. At the same time a case is referred to the police, Lawless said that CPS also notifies Dr. Barbara Cross, psychologist, at the Maple Clinic in Traverse City. Lawless said that Dr. Cross works closely with Children's Protective Services and the Sheriff's Department to both substantiate the abuse and determine the extent of the abuse. Because Dr. Cross's credentials qualify her as an expert witness she is able to give opinion testimony in court for children too young to describe their victimization.

The department receives other referrals from schools, doctors, hospitals, parents, family members, and other children. Parker said that abused children have even come to the Sheriff's office to complain about the abuse, because they just could not tolerate the situation any longer.

When asked if the incidence of sexual abuse was increasing or whether improvements in reporting were responsible for Crawford County's high referral rate, Parker said, that his experience indicates that both factors influence referral rates.

"Crime is increasing," stated Parker, "not because it is being reported more, but because it is increasing! Child abuse and sexual exploitation are increasing too," he said, "but Crawford County's high referral rate is also caused by increased reporting."

Parker credits the county's success rate for investigations to the excellent teamwork by investigative agencies, cooperation from the schools, and a greater awareness of the problem by area children through educational programs designed to discuss sexual abuse on various comprehensive levels. These problems include the Sheriff's Dept.'s Junior Deputy Program, Community Family & Children Services' B.A.B.E. Program, and a puppet program presented by Children's Protective Services.

PROSECUTION

If anything "good" can be said in connection with the problem of sexual abuse and sexual exploitation of children, Parker said, it would have to be that swift and severe punishment was given to all perpetrators.

"Crawford County has the best cooperation in possibly all of northern Michigan between Children's Protective Service personnel, the Sheriff's Dept., and the prosecutor's office when it comes to being open and working together for the good of the child," Parker said.

"Recognition by the public that sexual abuse of children exists has helped in the prosecution of abuse cases," Sabin said. "For so long, no one wanted to believe it was really happening."

Sabin said that the vast majority of criminal sexual conduct cases he has prosecuted have involved the victimization of young children by a member of their family, father, mother, brother, aunt, grandfather, or live-in boyfriend.

"The very people a young child needs to be able to trust," Sabin said.

The most likely reason that a criminal sexual conduct case is dismissed, said Sabin, is because the child has been so intimidated by family members, that she becomes unwilling to testify. Sabin said that in most cases, the children are so young, that they cannot understand or be convinced of the value of prosecution.

Crawford County has prosecuted parents, baby-sitters, boyfriends, and grandfathers.

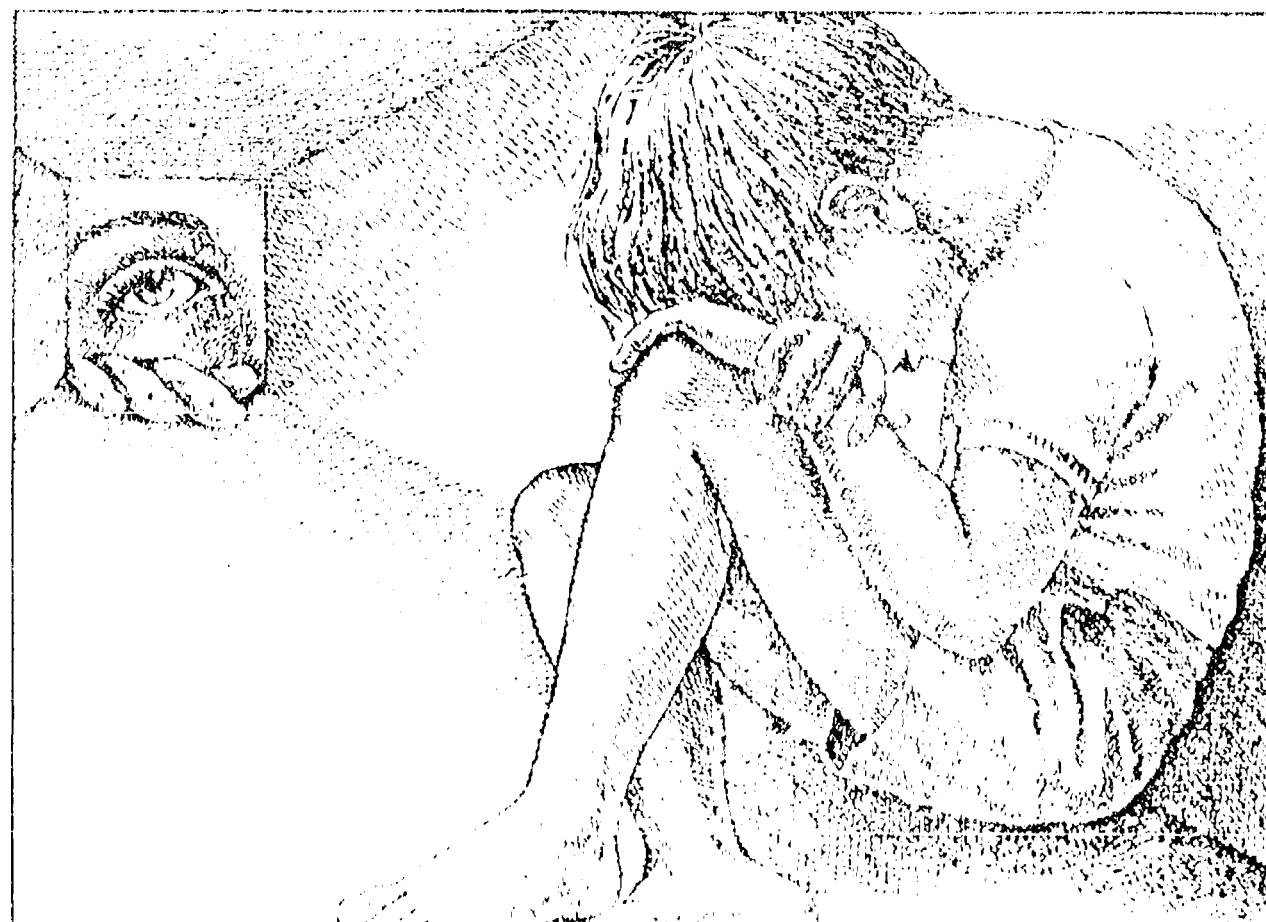

"It is agonizing and difficult," Sabin said, "to prosecute a case involving a small child who can barely explain the event. The child sits there as if in a glass house," he said, "with the perpetrator staring at her in a room filled with unfamiliar people, and everyone is looking at her."

Sabin said that the legislature tried to provide a procedure whereby a screen was placed between the victim and the alleged perpetrator, enabling the child to testify before a jury, but not having to look at or be stared at by the defendant. This law was intended to make it easier for small children, but the law is being challenged under the provision in the law that allows the accused to face his accusers.

"The one bright spot with the terrible problem of child abuse," said Lawless, "is that we are getting better at prosecuting the cases."

"Once a case goes to court," Parker stated, "the likelihood of the defendant being convicted is very probable."

"To my knowledge," Sabin said, "we have won every legitimate case we have prosecuted." He also said that he has been satisfied with the sentences handed down by both Circuit Court

VICTIMS

"The system is designed to put the bad guys away," Parker stated, "but does very little to help the victim. I would like to see more services available to victims."

According to Dr. Cross, most victims of sexual abuse are female.

Prior to the unveiling of the abuse, Dr. Cross said that victims often act out their victimization by running away, bed-wetting, eating disorders, promiscuity, bodily preoccupation, and shunning their peers in an effort to keep the abuse a secret.

"How a child tolerates the investigation and judiciary system depends on several different variables including the age of the child, her relationship with the perpetrator, how long the abuse occurred (a solitary incident, which is rare, or ongoing abuse), whether a support network exists for the child, and whether the child was believed when she reported the abuse.

Dr. Cross said that a child's ability to cope with the short term effects of the abuse depends to a great degree on how the revelation occurred, and how it was received.

Problems related to sexual abuse can also exacerbate themselves later in the victim's life in the forms of relationship difficulties, the inability to trust, sexual disfunctions, and substance abuse, Dr. Cross stated.

EDUCATION

"Awareness of the sexual abuse problem brings openness between parents and children, teachers and children, grandparents and grandchildren, or friend to friend," Parker said. "Only when victims begin talking, and reports of the abuse are filed, can the police investigate and the courts pass sentence."

"Children need to be taught that 'grown-ups' are not always right," Lawless stated. "Parents can help protect their children against sexual abuse by teaching them not to go with strangers no matter how inviting the invitation seems. Lawless stated that every child should be taught to respond to the suggestion of 'secret touching' by saying that they WILL tell, and that if anyone touches them or talks to them in some way that makes them feel uncomfortable they should tell their parents, tell their teacher, tell a relative, and keep telling until someone does something other than listen.

Because so much of the sexual abuse is occurring within families, Parker said that it is important that schools offer educational programs explaining appropriate and inappropriate behavior, and that abuse is against the law. He said that parents need to caution their children that perpetrators come in many disguises. Crawford County has prosecuted parents, baby-sitters, boyfriends, and grandfathers.

Waste Hauling

that before the county passes any ordinance, the county's attorneys should have the opportunity to review it and submit their recommendations to the board.

The county's attorneys, John Huss and David Sabin, who would be responsible to enforce the ordinance and respond, in court if necessary, to any suit brought against the ordinance by local haulers, had not reviewed the document," Callewaert said. "If they had, and had approved the ordinance, I might have voted yes."

McLachlan was concerned that the ordinance would put a hardship on out-of-county haulers who provide limited service to South Branch, Beaver Creek, and Lovells Townships. He said that it would be costly for those haulers who utilize a different landfill, closer to their business routes, such as the Roscommon or Montmorency-Oscoda Landfills.

The whole incinerator idea concerns McLachlan, who questions whether the project can be built for the $8 to $10 million estimated by John Miller, Executive Director of the Crawford-Otsego Landfill. The Jackson County mass-burn incinerator was supposed to have an $18 million price tag, said McLachlan, but it cost over $25 million to complete.

INCINERATOR ASH
McLachlan said that he was concerned about the disposal of the incinerator ash. According to the 11-28-88 issue of the Jackson Citizen Patriot, ash from Jackson facility was found to contain dangerous levels of lead, and had to be disposed of as hazardous waste. The facility was closed last November, because disposal of the ash would cost the county more than $1 million a year.

If the Crawford-Otsego Landfill constructs an incinerator McLachlan said that tipping fees would increase from the current $7 per ton to approximately $40 per ton.

Kitchen, member of the Landfill Authority, said that the proposed Crawford County Incinerator and recycling center could not be compared with the Jackson facility. She said that the Jackson facility burned everything, including refrigerators. The Crawford County facility would sort all garbage, recycling whatever is reusable, said Kitchen, and disposing of hazardous materials as directed by the DNR.

"I agree with Bob that solid waste costs will increase with the construction of the incinerator," said Kitchen, "but serious recycling by our residents should keep their costs to near present levels. Until waste disposal becomes expensive," she said, "people are not going to recycle."

Kitchen said that complying with DNR landfill regulations is expensive now and will become more expensive in the future, regardless of whether we continue to bury our garbage or burn it.

OUTSIDE USE

McLachlan said that he would like to see the Crawford-Otsego Landfill used only by Crawford and Otsego Counties. He said that this could be accomplished by increasing local tipping fees to $5 per yard and out-of-county fees to $10 per yard. Out-of-county fee increases would encourage other counties to "come on line, and relieve some of the stress" a few counties are bearing, McLachlan stated.

Of the 300 tons of garbage taken to the Crawford-Otsego Landfill every day during the summer months, McLachlan said that only about 30 tons are from Crawford County.

"Counties all over northern Michigan bring their garbage to Crawford County, and then forget it," stated McLachlan. "It is the residents of Crawford and Otsego Counties, and their children who will have to deal with possible future contamination."

McLachlan pointed out that test wells around the old landfill have begun showing trace amounts of contamination, and that the present landfill has not been lining their cells with vinyl. He said that the landfill has been exempt from lining their cells and installing a leachate collection system because Crawford County has fewer than 50 people per square mile as of the 1970 census. McLachlan said that he thinks that the volume of garbage being brought to the landfill probably negates the intent of the exemption.

The fact that the landfill is located about one mile from the source of the AuSable River is also a concern for McLachlan.

The Crawford-Otsego Landfill began operations in 1980 and has filled and capped 15 acres of land. Cotant said that the current license permit requests a land use permit for an additional 11.6 acres for the next two years.

GPA Plans Garage Sale

The Grayling Promotional Association, in cooperation with Grayling's Spring Walk on Saturday, April 22, will hold a Garage Sale in the parking lot at the American Legion Hall. In case of rain it will be held inside. The fundraiser is for the Milltown Festival Parade. If you have clean, priced goods to donate to the cause please bring them to the Legion on Friday, April 21, or leave them at Ivie Girl and Kathleen's Plus Fashions in the Mercantile Mall before that time.

The regular meeting of the GPA was held on Tuesday, March 28, at the Lake Margrethe home of Sherry Hanson.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:
I got a "good news, bad news" call the other day. You know the type. The good news was that some oil company wants to give me some money to lease my mineral rights. Seems that gas is to be found under Lovells and South Branch Township. The bad news was that they want to drill across the river from us. All I could picture was the glow of the gas burn-off reflecting off of the river instead of the moon and the stars, the roar of oil trucks tearing through the back roads, and the smell of sulfur in the woods.

The worst of it though, was that the oilman said that the well would be drilled no-matter if I wanted to lease or not. It seems the State of Michigan has sold its ok to drill around the AuSable (both the main stream and the North Branch), Natural Rivers Act and all. They already have leased our public trust to some oil company. Those of us with little acreage can complain, but when it comes down to it "the majority land owner has the say", the oilman said. Called the state geologist to ask about my rights, and he agreed "that's the way it usually goes". Called the state's real-estate mineral office, they told me that I "could make some money". Called the state conservation club, they said to "have a lawyer go over the lease and to write my legislator".

I figured that the good people of Crawford County need to know what's in store for the AuSable and the area. Although I'm not optimistic, I don't want to see what has happened in Alaska, or for that matter Kalkaska and Williamsburg, happen here. You know all about it: oil spills; contaminated water; dangerous substances affecting people's lives and the environment. I would also like some advice and help in doing something about the state of affairs here in Crawford County.

Gas Drilling Near River Has Reader Asking for Help

Opinions

Northern Views

By Jon Thompson
Avalanche Editor

(The following editorial was written by the staff of The Children's Trust Fund for the prevention of child abuse.)

When Jack Benny was threatened with, "Your money or your life," he used to hesitatingly reply, "I'm thinking, I'm thinking." Michigan taxpayers are faced with a different kind of choice this tax season, but the response is no laughing matter.

The choice we're facing is the check-off for The Children's Trust Fund (CTF) on your state income tax form. Taxpayers can contribute $5 or any other amount by simply checking off the CTF box on their state income tax form.

During the new year you'll probably read or listen to dozens of depressing news reports about children who have been abused. You'll probably wish you could do something about it, but you won't know what to do, or you won't have the time. Well, this is the time. And all you have to do is make a small donation to CTF now to know that you really can help prevent child abuse and neglect from happening in the future.

The Children's Trust Fund (CTF) is a permanent source of funding for local programs throughout the state working to prevent child abuse and neglect. Traditionally, funding is set aside for treating the aftermath of child abuse. But the CTF is a nonprofit, independent organization that targets its efforts at stopping abuse before it happens.

Child abuse continues to rise in Michigan. Over the past 15 years, reports of suspected child abuse and neglect in our state have skyrocketed over 500 percent, to over 50,000 reported cases last year. And child abuse is passed on from one generation to the next. The majority of adults who abuse or neglect children were abused or neglected themselves when they were young.

More children under the age of 5 die from injuries inflicted by their parents than die from tuberculosis, whooping cough, polio, measles, diabetes, rheumatic fever and appendicitis combined. And at least 80 percent of prison inmates were severely abused or neglected during their childhood.

These are the alarming facts that CTF is working so hard to change. Without education and prevention, countless numbers of abused children will suffer from physical and emotional scars, and many will grow up to be juvenile delinquents, alcoholics, and criminals. So the pain of child abuse extends further into society, and into every taxpayer's pocketbook. And the pattern of abuse will continue from one generation to the next unless we do something to stop it.

As The Children's Trust Fund for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect (CTF) enters its seventh year, the nonprofit, independent organization is coping with declining donations and a lack of awareness among the people of Michigan regarding CTF and its efforts.

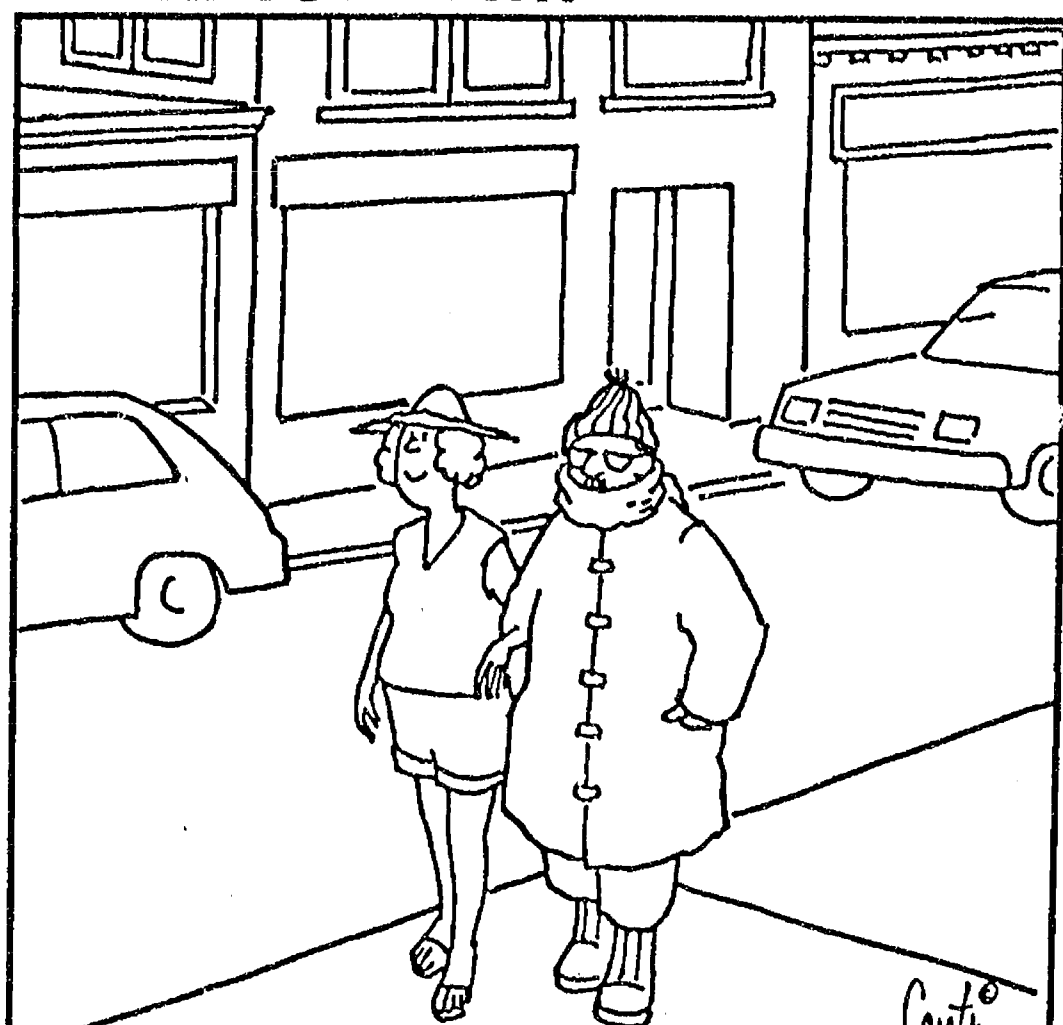

Funds collected through Michigan's income tax check-off for the CTF last year fell sharply. Despite this decrease, CTF funded 42 local programs throughout the state aimed at preventing child abuse and neglect, and the CTF account continues to grow with the help of direct donations and accrued interest. To date, more than 100,000 children and families have directly benefited from CTF.

But the numbers could be even greater. Few people in Michigan are aware of what CTF is or what it does, and only a small fraction of the eligible taxpayers have donated to CTF over the past six years. Each year, CTF has received approximately $1 million in donations, but if every Michigan taxpayer donated $5 in 1989, it would result in $21 million in donations.

If you're getting a refund this year, we urge you to check the CTF box on your state income tax form and donate a small portion of that refund to CTF. If you're not getting a refund, we urge you to also check the CTF box on your state income tax form and make a small direct donation to help prevent child abuse and neglect in Michigan.

It shouldn't hurt to be a child. All children deserve a safe and happy childhood. If you had a good childhood, you were one of the lucky ones and now you can help someone who isn't so fortunate as you were. If you didn't have a good childhood, then you know better than anyone else how badly CTF needs your help.

Almanack

By Richard Milliman
Avalanche President

I see by the papers . . .

I SEE BY THE PAPERS that pro-Communist President Daniel Ortega in Nicaragua has kept his bargain to release almost 2,000 political prisoners, jailed almost 10 years since the Sandinista Revolution of 1979.

That's good news. Maybe there's something in this Central America peace process after all.

The prisoner release was part of the deal when five Central American presidents sat down recently to work on a common peace proposal. In return for harnessing and dispersing the anti-Sandinista contras, Nicaragua agreed to ease its iron rule, leading to elections in February 1990. That's less than a year now.

Prison gates swung open for 1,894 prisoners, most former members of deposed President Somoza's national guard. Still jailed are another 39 guardsmen and collaborators, rated too dangerous for freedom, plus another 1,500 or so prisoners, mostly peasants farmers accused of being contras or collaborators.

Maybe peace is getting somewhere in Central America. Freedom for political prisoners could be one step along the way. Any Sandinista sign of compromise is good news.

Still, skeptics will maintain their wariness. If life in Nicaragua is so great, now come Texas and Florida are flooded with Nicaraguan refugees? It always makes you wonder about political utopias, when more people try to get out than try to get in.

I SEE BY THE PAPERS that a personal favorite, Coach Bill Frieder, is leaving the University of Michigan basketball scene. It was inevitable.

From an objective standpoint, Mr. Frieder built an outstanding record in his nine years as head coach, including six straight 20-victory seasons, Big Ten titles in 1985 and 1986, and national Coach of the Year honors in 1985.

However, Mr. Frieder obviously never mastered the art of public relations, as witness publicly accepting his new job while his team was alive in the NCAA tournament.

Once Football Czar Bo Schembechler took over as athletic director at Ann Arbor, Mr. Frieder's Wolverine days were numbered.

When Mr. Frieder stated publicly he had accepted the new job, Mr. Schembechler told him to leave forthwith — even before the Wolverines' first game in the tournament.

"I don't want someone from Arizona State coaching the Michigan team," reasoned Mr. Schembechler. "A Michigan man is going to coach Michigan."

Fair enough. If Mr. Frieder chose to be so inelegant as to announce his departure with unfinished business still at hand on the home front, then Mr. Schembechler could be just as inelegant as to banish Mr. Frieder way up into the cheap seats to watch the Wolverines from the sidelines.

BUT I ALSO SEE BY THE PAPERS that Mr. Schembechler decided to save a few bucks by leaving the Michigan pep band at home for the NCAA games at Atlanta. It would have cost $16,000 to $18,000 to send the band and cheerleaders to Atlanta, according to Jack Weidenbach, Mr. Bo's right hand in the athletic department.

So instead, Michigan paid $750 to hire the Georgia State University Panthers pep band to play Wolverine songs and cheer Wolverine cheers at the Atlanta games. Michigan even provided Wolverine baseball caps and polo shirts, too.

Apparently Mr. Schembechler figures it's not all right for an Arizona State coach to be involved with a Michigan athletic team; but it's perfectly all right for Georgia musicians to play and root for them — that is, if the price is right.

Come on, now, Bo: $16,000 for the band and cheerleaders? Why, your football team spills more than that in gatorade on any football Saturday.

There can be no doubt as to who rules the roost at Ann Arbor. Football is king. And the new basketball coach at Ann Arbor may as well accept that fact going in.

I SEE BY THE PAPERS that Sen. Gordon Humphrey of New Hampshire has announced that he won't run again in 1990. He's in his second six-year term now.

Sen. Humphrey said that 18 years in the Senate would be "too darn much."

"It becomes a career at that point, and I don't think one should make a career of serving in Congress," said Mr. Humphrey, who is only 48.

That's what the writers of the Constitution had in mind when they set up our form of government, but the idea has become lost over the years.

Maybe Gordon Humphrey's move will start a trend . . . but don't count on it.

Corrections Officers Feel Inmates Have More Rights

Inmates within Michigan's corrections system have more rights than the corrections officers who work in those facilities, according to a survey of the officers, and that is contributing to stress on their job.

The survey, conducted by Theresa Cross PhD and Associates of West Bloomfield and presented to the House Corrections Committee, showed that officers believe the system "coddles and pampers" the inmates, Cross said.

"The recurring theme is the inmates have more rights than the corrections officers. They're upset that the inmates get away with murder, basically," she told the committee.

Rep. Floyd Clack (D-Flint), chair of the committee, said the members will review the Cross report, which includes 30 recommendations to be acted on by the Legislature, Department of Corrections or Michigan Corrections Organization. He added that elimination or reduction of stress could minimize a number of other problems within the corrections system.

Also included in the Cross study, which was authorized by the Legislature to determine the nature and extent of stress and stress-related problems in the system, were indications that the quality of administration is also of concern to the officers.

They don't question the actual qualifications, Cross said, but rather the treatment of the inmates by the administration.

Officers indicated their ideas are not utilized in the management process, that "they don't feel they have enough input," she added.

And concerns were also raised regarding role conflicts, which Ms. Cross indicated means to the officers "I don't know what I'm supposed to do." Something has got to be done so we know who's in charge of the cell block."

The survey also indicated stress effects on the corrections officers cost the state in several areas, including worker's compensation, long term disability, disability retirement, sick time and employee turnover.

For example, Cross said, 13.5 percent of the 987 persons surveyed said they are planning to leave their job within the next year.

And the value of the claims paid by the state in worker's compensation to corrections officers, she added, accounts for about 22.3 percent of all those paid out by the state since 1985.

Recommendations to address the stress concerns included that feedback from the survey be provided to the participants. "Failure to communicate the results and act on the findings of the study will do more harm than if the study had not been undertaken in the first place," Cross said.

Also included in the recommendations were the following:

—improving the corrections officers' perceptions of the respect they get from administrators and supervisors.

—involve corrections officers' in the decision-making process at the facility level.

—review and clarify current department policies and procedures for dealing with inmates and security.

—clarify the chain of command in the housing units.

—reduce unnecessary or unwarranted danger.

—provide more overlap between shifts and communications between shifts.

—improve procedures for recruiting and selecting corrections officers and hire additional corrections officers.

Q. Should I get my eyes examined every year?
How about my children?

A. If you are over 35, in your teens or a school-aged child, you should have an annual vision examination. Once every two years may be all you need if you are in your twenties and early thirties, unless your optometrist advises otherwise. Parents should start their children off with a first vision examination by age three and again before entering school. Since vision may change rapidly during the school years, annual examinations make good sense. After age 35, yearly optometric examinations are needed to detect eye disease signs early and to keep pace with changes in vision that occur naturally as we get older.

"CORNELL CORNER"

Hypothetical case, if a tree limb crashed through your roof in a storm, your homeowner's insurance would probably cover removing the limb and fixing the roof. It would even cover the damage inside the house caused by rain coming through the hole.

But if a nearby creek overflowed in the same storm, and flooded your family room, your homeowner's policy would not cover the damage. And that's why you may need flood insurance.

Though flood insurance is most necessary for those in flood hazard areas — and their communities must take flood control measures to qualify — anyone can use this protection. Indeed, if you're not in a flood hazard area, you can insure as much of your home as you wish.

Because flood insurance is sponsored and subsidized by the Federal government, the rates are standard.

National Guard Funds Eagle Research at Camp

Camp Grayling will be the site of Bald Eagle research in a cooperative project by the Michigan National Guard, The Michigan Department of Natural Resources, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The Michigan Department of Military Affairs has announced approval of an $18,000 federal grant funding study of a pair of American Bald Eagles nesting on the National Guard's northern Michigan training facility.

The pair of eagles to be studied has been nesting just outside Camp Grayling's borders for many years and has been termed, by Michigan's DNR, one of the most successfully breeding pairs in the state. During the winter of 1988 their traditional nesting tree blew down and the eagles moved into the military training area.

The Guard and DNR

responded by prohibiting access by civilian or military personnel within a 1/4 mile of the new nesting tree. In addition, the Guard closed down two of its nearby artillery firing points and a portion of one of its access roads.

According to the DNR, the eagles successfully produced two young last season, and have just recently returned to begin a new breeding cycle. Restrictions on military and civilian activities near the nesting tree will remain in effect this year.

William W. Bowerman, a graduate assistant at Michigan State University, will conduct a study of the occupied nest site during each of the next three breeding seasons, recording feeding and prey used, key habitat used, and any interaction with humans.

One of the two adult eagles from this site will be banded with a miniature transmitter. A satellite will plot the eagle's movements, providing researchers with data needed to develop improved management guidelines for this endangered species.

Mr. John Popowski, Regional Director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service termed the study "well thought out and quite comprehensive".

$2,000 DONATION — John and Jack Alef, of Grayling State Bank, and Tom Carley and Bob Vitto, of Citizens Bank, (L-R) give Steve Southard a $2,000 check for the 1989 AuSable River International Canoe Marathon.

DNR Tightens Firewood Permit Restrictions

The Department of Natural Resources will be issuing fuelwood permits again for 1989, but they will be highly restricted to a relatively few specific locations and limited in numbers, according to Jim McMillan, DNR Area Forest Manager.

These restrictions will apply to all state forest lands in the northern lower peninsula. Permits for dead hardwood trees and tops will cover up to 5 standard cords of wood at a cost of $10.00. Permits for dead pine will be free and also allow removal of up to 5 standard cords. Both types of permits will be limited to a period of 90 days duration from date of issue. Wood gathered is for fuel for home use only and only one of each permit will be allowed per household.

Permits will be issued only on areas where there is a known supply of fuelwood resulting from either a commercial timber sale or from insect attacks, diseases, wind storms, or other natural disasters. Permit holders are cautioned that the ORV laws make it illegal to use a truck, car, four-wheeler, etc., in the woods except on established roads and trails.

The "tightening" of restrictions on the gathering of fuelwood is felt necessary because of the greatly diminished supply of fuelwood on state forest land. This has resulted in the creation of many new unneeded access roads and trails by persons in search of wood, and in the cutting of many dead trees and snags which are very valuable to wildlife.

The new policy will eliminate, for the most part, the opportunity to establish new roads and trails, and curtail the indiscriminate driving through forested lands. Also, the valuable dead wildlife habitat trees will be reserved where needed. And finally, the cutting of green, live trees which may be temporarily defoliated (and may look dead) due to insects or drought can be controlled.

It is strongly recommended that persons who depend on wood for fuel consider other alternatives for their fuelwood supply. Several commercial loggers have local supplies of hardwood for sale to homeowners. It is estimated that a year's supply of firewood can be delivered right to your yard for $200 to $300.

If anyone would like suggestions on firewood vendors, or have any questions regarding the new fuelwood permit policy, please call your local DNR office.

'Fantasticks' Musical Highlights KCC Open House April 16

On Sunday, April 16th from 12:30 until 3 p.m., Kirtland Community College will be holding its annual Open House. In addition to classrooms and labs being open, the Roscommon Jazz Band will perform. At 3 p.m. this same day, the musical production

"The Fantasticks" will be performed by the Nebraska Theatre Caravan, the professional touring wing of the Omaha Community Playhouse. With memorable songs like "Try to Remember," "Soon It's Gonna Rain" and "They Were You," it is no wonder that this musical by Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt has seen more than 9,000 productions and has found a home in over 70 foreign countries.

The upcoming production is directed by Carl Beck, Associate Director with the Omaha Community Playhouse, and noted director of former Caravan productions, including Man of La Mancha, Pump Boys and Dinettes, Strider and Tintypes. With Musical Direction by John Bennett, Scenic Design by Steve Wheeldon and Costume Design by John Gergel, The Fantasticks promises to live up to its well-established name.

The story of The Fantasticks was taken from "Les Romantiques," Edmond Rostand's first play. It is a very simple story of a boy and a girl who fall in love. The wall, that their supposedly feuding fathers construct between them, only adds to their romance when they are forced to meet secretly. Actually, the fathers are the best of friends who have planned their marriage all along.

There is a narrator of sorts, El Gallo, who convinces the fathers to stage an abduction in the moonlight, in order to allow them to overcome their pretended objection and allow the girl to see her future mate in the most romantic light possible, when he rescues her from her abductors. After this episode goes off as planned, the musical then transforms its players to a world of bright, disillusioning sunlight. All soon discover that "what at night seems oh, so scenic; may be cynic in the light." The fathers, the boy and the girl find happiness only after developing the theme that "without a hurt, the heart is hollow."

This production of The Fantasticks is made possible by a generous grant from ConAgra. Additional funding for the Caravan is provided in part by the Nebraska Arts Council, United Arts Omaha, the Mid-America Arts Alliance, the Metropolitan Arts Council, Target Stores, Whitmore Charitable Trust, the Gilbert M.

and Martha H. Hitchcock Foundation and the Cooper Foundation.

Tickets for the performance are available by calling Doug Purcell, Community and Cultural events at 275-5121 extension 288. Tickets are $10 and $8.50 for regular admission, and $8 and $6.50 for senior citizens and students.

Fifty steps a minute. That's all it takes to start getting into good walking shape for the annual March of Dimes WalkAmerica walk-a-thon, according to exercise physiologist Denise Austin. Austin, a March of Dimes WalkAmerica Celebrity Ambassador and host of a daily fitness program on ESPN, offers walking tips for everyone, especially the more than 600,000 women, men and children who will participate in the annual event, which raises money to prevent birth defects.

WalkAmerica is the nation's largest walking event. "It's a perfect way to combine healthy exercise with the March of Dimes campaign for healthy babies," Austin says. "In fact, it's a great exercise for pregnant women!" WalkAmerica. Grayling '89 has a route of approximately 5 miles.

The walk starts at 10 a.m. at the Meadows in Grayling on Saturday, May 20. Registration is at 9 a.m.

Refreshments will be provided by Pizza Hut and free t-shirts will be given to everyone who registers with at least $50 in donations.

A free 10-speed bike will be given to the person that raises the most money (donated by K-Mart).

A battered boot will be awarded to the team with the most walkers and to the team that raises the most money.

36 GHS Students Join Foreign Language Day

Students from the Grayling High School Spanish Department participated in the Northern Michigan Foreign Language Teachers Association's 3rd annual Foreign Language Day, held March 21 on the campus of Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City.

GHS was one of 15 northern Michigan high schools represented at the event, which had nearly 600 students of French, Spanish and German in attendance. The day-long event featured rated performances in Dances, Displays, Skits, Songs, a Vocabulary Bee competition, money-making booths, folk dance and Esperanto classes, college and university admissions office booths, a cheer-leading demonstration and foreign language videos.

Thirty-six 1st to 4th year GHS Spanish students attended — over one-quarter of those enrolled in the department, said Spanish instructor Nancy Lemmen. They entered the Song, Display and Vocabulary competitions, ran two money-making booths, and demonstrated Spanish cheers.

Senior James Montoya earned a 1 (Superior) rating with his Spanish song, "Guan-tanamera." Seniors Cheryl Barber and Lori Dean and sophomores Dana Mirate and Josh Woodland also earned a 1 with their performance of "La Bamba."

Seniors Angie Ross and Dawn Porath and freshmen Ken Bind-schatel and Bob Hebel were awarded 1's for their display on the life and works of Spanish artist Salvador Dali.

Students, mainly from 2nd year Spanish, who performed cheers included: Lori Dean, Tim Hough, Sue McLaughlin, Jay Mertes, Dana Mirate, Jenny Naour, Scott Nicholas, Dave Teddy and Josh Woodland.

Third year cheerleaders included: Dawn Bouse, Teresa Ferguson, Joanna Myers, Paula Nunn (2nd year), Melanie Ojala, Heather Pelton, Margarita Perez and Sunny Pritchett.

Participating in the Vocabulary Bee competition were: Karen

Ferguson and Jessica Lam (1st year) and Teresa Ferguson (3rd year).

The following students developed and ran money-making booths: Cheryl Barber, Jeremy Beroset, Michele Burcham, Jeni Doty, Tammy Duby, Chad Flowers, Anna Hagemeister, Nikki Lester, Rafael Mayoral, Janet Petrosky, Deanna Phelps and Holly Shippy.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE DAY — Third year Spanish students from Grayling High School perform Spanish cheers for the audience at Foreign Language Day at Northwestern Michigan College. L-R: Dawn Bouse, Paula Nunn, Teresa Ferguson, Joanna Myers, Margarita Perez.

State Police Switching To Semi-Automatic Gun

Michigan State Police troopers don't have to worry about keeping up with the Joneses. Instead they try to keep up with the bad guys.

A change from the old 38 model 10 revolver to a 9mm semi-automatic gun will keep troopers in pace with the high technology weapons the bad guys are using.

Sgt. Floyd Millikin, from the Houghton Lake state police post, said the new 9mm weapon uses a 15-shell magazine that is possible to reload in a couple of seconds while still maintaining sight of your target. The old 38 is a six-shot cylinder gun which took 10-12 seconds to reload and you had to take your eye off your target to concentrate on reloading. Troopers using the old 38 had 6 bullets in the gun and carried 12 on their belts for a total of 18. The new weapon has 16 in the gun plus two magazines for a total of 46 shots. Millikin said that could be the difference between life or death in an emergency.

The statewide change to the new weapon will take most of this year. Millikin is on special leave from active duty to travel and train officers for the new weapon. Each officer must have 40 hours training before being authorized to carry it.

Along with the new weapon, troopers will be changing over to a "strong-side" draw with the 9mm gun, with the holster on the same side as their shooting hand. In the past the troopers used a "weak-side" draw, reaching across their body to draw the gun.

The new 9mm is a Sig Sauer model P226 Swiss gun produced in West Germany. The weapons cost $426 each from a supplier in Virginia. With accessories, the state will pay more than $500 to equip each trooper.

NEW WEAPON — The semi-automatic with 3 magazines gives a troop 46 shots.

Comedians Lead Rehearsals For Rotary Minstrel Show

Rehearsals for the upcoming Grayling Rotary Show are about as intense as they can get in the light of the comedian type cast that annually hits the spotlights.

George (Concert Master) Stencil will lead the chorus in a menu of songs fitting the theme which could be classified as one leading to a long term sentence.

Scouting for the corniest jokes in the world again are the amazing pair of way-off-broadway humorists Jim Berglund and Irv (Big Foot) McIsaac.

And then there are the skits with all of the well known comedians the audience has seen from year to year. Of course they will exceed their own remarkable walk on pranks that have made them the talk of the town from the first time the club presented a show.

Of course a feature of the program again this year is that group of musicians that put the show over the top — The New Reformation Dixieland Band.

The show will premiere at the Joseph

Stripe Auditorium on April 15 and 16. Tickets are still available from any Rotarian at a cost of $6 each. The proceeds will go to the many local worthy projects that have been sponsored throughout the years as well as many new ones that present themselves from day to day.

British Digest Publishes Grayling Resident's Poem

Local resident Mary Lowery is modest about her writing abilities, but British Digest Illustrated was sufficiently impressed to print one of her poems and award her third prize in a poetry contest sponsored last spring by the magazine.

Contest rules required the poems' subject matter to be about Great Britain, which Mary knows well. She was born in Warley, a town in the county of Worcestershire in the English Midlands, and lived there until she emigrated with her immediate family to Michigan in 1947.

She met American Army soldier Oliver Lowery while he was stationed in Cornwall during World War II. They married in Harbor Springs, Michigan, in April of 1947.

The Lowerys, who have three children and two grandchildren, retired to Crawford County in 1979. Many people know Mary through her job at the Crawford County Library and her volunteer work for Mercy Hospital, Hospice of Crawford County, Crawford AuSable Day Care, Crawford AuSable School District, Braille Transcribing, and Retired Senior Volunteer Program.

Mary's poem, "Reverie," is printed in this week's Poet's Corner on the Feature Page. It will also be featured in a poetry anthology, Treasured Poems of America 1989, to be published in June.

Beecher Fireman Hero Retires to Grayling Area

Thirty years ago, Roy McIntosh was urged to join the Beecher Fire Department because the department needed more volunteers and his friends thought McIntosh would enjoy the camaraderie.

After months of urging, McIntosh joined the department March 6, 1960 and stuck with it until Feb. 1, 1989, when he decided to retire with 39 years of service as a fireman and 27 years as a fire inspector.

When asked why he stayed with the fire department so long, McIntosh replied: "I had fun. I like the fellas I worked with. I got along good with everybody and enjoyed it."

McIntosh, 57, has accumulated many fond memories of his years on the Beecher Fire Department, but his most memorable is when he risked his life to save a 2-year-old girl from a burning Mt. Morris Township home on March 13, 1971.

"I heard her faint cries coming from the basement," McIntosh recalled. "I was told to go upstairs, but I didn't obey orders."

"I went down to the basement and panicked and turned around to go back up twice, but I kept hearing her making grunting sounds. I searched until I came across a table and what looked to be a rag doll under it."

The rag doll turned out to be little Holly

Donald, the daughter of Lonnie and Helen Donald who had escaped the fire unharmed.

McIntosh and Holly were able to flee the smoke-filled basement by following a ray of sunshine back to the door at the top of the stairs.

Holly was taken to Hurley where she was treated for smoke inhalation.

McIntosh was featured in a story on the front page of Sunday, March 14, 1971 edition of the Flint Journal, and received many awards and accolades for his bravery including letters from then State Rep. F. Robert Edwards, the Genesee County Firefighters Association and UAW local

326. He was also honored by Fisher Body for his "unself contribution and service" to the Beecher community. McIntosh was employed at the Fisher Body-Coldwater Plant until he retired Feb. 1, 1989. McIntosh has since moved to Grayling with his wife, Beverly, to enjoy his retirement.

The couple have a son, John and his wife, Cathy, and four grandchildren, Johnny, Jamie, Jodie, and Jenalee.

The Bible Speaks

From Calvary Baptist Church

The Gospel of John

Part 72 - Heaven
Jesus Christ had spoken to the troubled hearts of His disciples about a treasured home or mansion in His Father's house where He would prepare them a place and return to take them there to be with Him. (John 14:1-3). "And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know. Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?" (John 14:4, 5). Jesus had repeatedly told them He came down from heaven. (John 3:13, 31; 6:33, 38, 41, 42, 50, 51, 58.) The scriptures remind us that He returned to heaven in the ascension. (Mark 16:19; Luke 24:51; Acts 1:10, 11; Acts 7:55; and I Peter 3:22). The greatest hope of all Christians is the soon return of Jesus Christ. (Phil. 3:20; I Thess 1:10; 4:16, 17).

Heaven is a fact stated in 550 verses of the Bible. There are actually 3 heavens, the first is the earth's atmosphere, the second the planetary space, and third, the abode of God. Paul tells of seeing the third heaven in 2 Corinthians 12:2. The Bible refers to the "heaven of heavens" in Deut. 10:14; I Kings 8:27; 2 Chron. 2:6 and Neh. 9:8). It is here we see the throne of God. (Isa. 66:1; Psa 11:4; I Kings 22:19; 2 Chron 18:18; Job 44:11 & Rev. 4:2). Heaven is a place characterized by holiness and purity. (Deut. 26:15; 2 Chron 30:27; Psa 20:6; Rev. 4:8 & Rev. 21:2). Heaven is a place of eternal rewards. (Matt 5:12; 19:21; Mark 10:21; Lu. 6:23; I Pet 1:4; and Rev 22:12). Heaven is also a place of joy. (Luke 15:7).

Will I know my loved ones in heaven? Yes! When Jesus returns He will change our bodies into bodies like His. (I John 3:2 & Phil 3:20, 21). We shall be gathered with our people just like the saints of old. (Abraham Gen 25:8; Ishmael Gen 25:17; Isaac Gen 35:29; Jacob Gen 49:33; Aaron Nu 20:24; and Moses Nu 27:12, 13.) David illustrated this truth being comforted at the death of his son. "But now he is dead, wherefore should I fast? can I bring him back again? I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me." (2 Sam 12:23). The rich man in hell illustrated this truth as he communicated with Abraham and Lazarus. (Luke 16:23). The appearance of Moses and Elias on the mount of transfiguration with Jesus Christ, Peter, James, and John illustrate this fact. (Luke 9:28-36). It is a promise to all God's children in Matthew 8:11. We shall sit down with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. The way to heaven is through the person of Jesus Christ alone. He stated it clearly, "Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." There is no way to heaven except personal faith in Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior. (John 14:6). (Hear "The Bible Speaks" at 12:15 a.m. Tuesday on WQON 100 FM).

Thursday	Revelation 5
Friday	Luke 19:1-28
Saturday	Luke 19:29-48

This baby makes a marvelous picture—but would he or she really make a marvelous chef? Can you imagine what might happen if you let the baby brew up a pot of everything its chubby little fingers could latch onto?

Let's face it! It takes thought, direction and planning to do anything well in life—even to make a good stew. Though a true chef may not follow the cookbook precisely, the ingredients will be selected and blended with care and precision. Only then will the dish be a success.

What does all this have to do with going to church? More than you might think! If you have been leaving the church out of your recipe for living, you have been missing some of life's most precious ingredients—God's love, His precious gift of Faith and some of the greatest lessons ever revealed to man.

State Trust Fund Looks To Acquire Special Lands

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund Board are interested in learning about land that is available for public acquisition.

The Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund program, administered by the DNR, provides funds to the Department and local units of government for the acquisition of land for public recreation or resource protection purposes.

"We are looking for lands that will provide access to Michigan's water resources, particularly the Great Lakes," said DNR Director David F. Hales, "as well as lands that have outstanding natural features in need of protection."

The Department is also interested in acquiring land in southern Michigan that would provide quality outdoor recreation opportunities.

Through this program, any individual—not just a landowner—can identify and nominate parcels of land for public acquisition.

Last year, $17.5 million was approved by the Trust Fund Board toward land acquisitions, several of which resulted from the nomination of land by private individuals.

However, the Department is limited to paying fair market value, as determined by an appraisal.

Nomination forms are available by contacting the DNR's Recreation Division, Grants Management Branch, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing 48909; 517-373-1660.

He stated the committee has no desire to sell lots just development, parking & etc. Mayor Golnick asked what the red house would be used for. Mr. Rosczyk noted they would use the house for offices until new building was completed. Razing of present structures & new construction would be started in early spring. After that the house could be moved or rented. Mr. Morford stated site plan would be required for review prior to development. Mr. Thompson asked cost of proposed building. Answer was $150,000. Mr. Long asked if house changed to O.S. could it be used for residential. Mr. Morford stated yes but only single family. Mr. Long had no objection to change O.S. Mr. Thompson stated the rezoning would be an enhancement to area home owners and tax base. Mr. Morford referred to O.S. uses allowed. Mayor Golnick closed the Public Hearing at 8:00 p.m.

Moved by Sloan, supported by Golnick that the rezoning of lots 4, 5, 6, 7, & 8, of blk 5 of Roffees addition from R-1 to O.S. be granted as requested based on the results of the Public Hearing and related data. Ayes: 4, Nays: 0, Abstain: Thompson, Absent: 0, motion carried.

He was also advised that the City Engineer would be proceeding with engineering for all other unpaved streets during the summer of 1989 in preparation for future programs. One of the reasons for Ingham Street not being done in 1989 was a need for completion of plans for the proposed Booster Club project located on the practice football field.

Resource Review

By Bruce Patrick
Conservation Officer

A recent amendment to the Marine Safety Act is sure to cause questions and consternation. Public Act 56, 1988 provides for an increase in the fee structures for boat registrations. One of the provisions requires the registration of all canoes beginning January 1, 1989.

Previously, only those canoes which are motorized or used for commercial purposes needed to be registered. Since the first of the year, a $4.50 and a $11.00 fee has been required for non-motorized and motorized canoes, respectively.

Several questions came to mind when I heard of this legislation. First of all, what constitutes a motorized canoe? The answer is that a motor has to be used with a canoe for it to be motorized. A square stern canoe, built for use with a motor, is not considered motorized by itself. The response to my second question was that the registration certificates for canoes will clearly indicate their status. A person will not be able to use a motor on a canoe which is registered as non-motorized. As with all registration certificates, this one must be with the watercraft when it is in use. My third question concerned specialized canoes, such as those used in the AuSable River Marathon. I found out that although the canoes may not necessarily have to be registered during the race, they will need to be registered during practice sessions. Kayaks are considered canoes and therefore require registration the same as canoes, effective January 1, 1989.

When I inquired into what prompted this move, I was informed that the legislature passed the law as a means to provide revenue for the Michigan Harbor Development Fund. It will also provide money for the construction and maintenance of other access sites throughout the state.

Crime Watch

What's happened to our country
Why is there so much crime anymore
I can remember when I was young
We never locked our door.

Now the prisons are overflowing
Still our streets are filled with crimes
Some blame it all on drugs and guns
Some on the changing times.

But no one seems to have the answer
To the crimes we see each day
Some folks think if they ignore it
Maybe it will go away.

The Police are doing the best they can
To turn this tide of crime around
But there is so much crime, and they're so few
They just can't gain much ground.

But we can be their eyes and ears
And support them in many ways
Their job is far from easy
The way things are these days.

Don't try to do their job for them
Just report it if you see something wrong
If everyone keeps their eyes open
Crimes and criminals won't last long.

If folks report the crimes they see
The Police will handle it from there
Be willing to go to court and testify
Be the kind of folks that care.

Recipes

By Phyllis Brummer

Sausage is not just for breakfast. With so many types of sausages available, it can be as versatile as ground beef for preparing main dishes. It can be wrapped in puff pastry, baked in a ring and filled with vegetables or mashed potatoes, added to casseroles, made into a deep fried meat pie, or a poor-man's paella. If you have a meat grinder or an attachment for your electric mixer, a sausage stuffer, and an available supply of casings, it is fun to experiment with various seasonings. With a smoker, you can also make your own smoked sausage.

Basic Sausage Mix makes about 8 lbs.

4 1/2 lb. lean pork
1 1/2 lb. fat pork
3 tbsp. salt
1 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. sage

Grind meat together, mix with other ingredients and grind 2 more times. Stuff casings or form into patties, wrapping each in foil or plastic. Freeze up to 3 months.

For a variation of the basic recipe, use 3 lb. lean beef or veal, 2 lb. lean pork, and 1 lb. fat pork. For sweet Italian sausage, use basic recipe but omit sage. Add 1 medium chopped onion, 1 minced garlic clove, 2 tsp. paprika, 1 tsp. dried red pepper, 2 tsp. fennel seeds, 1/2 tsp. each brushed bay leaf and thyme, 1/4 tsp. ground coriander and 1/2 c. red wine. To make Chorizos (Hot Mexican sausage), use basic recipe but omit sage and use all lean pork. Add 1 tbsp. oregano, 6 minced cloves garlic, 1/3 c. chili powder, 1 tsp. ground cumin, 1 tsp. dried red peppers, and 2/3 c. vinegar.

German Bratwurst

1 1/2 lb. lean veal
2 lb. lean pork
1/2 tsp. whole marjoram
1/2 tsp. caraway seeds
1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg
2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. white pepper
About 3/4 c. cold water

Grind meats together twice, using fine blade. Combine marjoram, caraway seeds and nutmeg and grind to fine powder with mortar and pestle or in a spice or coffee grinder. Add to meat along with salt, pepper and water. Stuff casings. Pierce links with a fork, cover with water and bring to boil then simmer about 5 minutes. Links can then be panfried or broiled. For a different treatment, brown links in butter, cover with beer, and cook over high heat until beer is reduced by half. Add sauteed onions, correct seasoning is necessary and thicken slightly with flour. Serve with cooked cabbage or sauerkraut. Easy ways to dress up sausage patties:

Baked sausage and apples: shape 1 lb. sausage into four patties and brown well. Transfer to casserole large enough to hold patties in one layer. Peel, core, and thinly slice 4 tart apples; toss with 1/4 c. light brown sugar, 1/4 tsp. cinnamon, a pinch of nutmeg, and juice of 1/2 lemon. Spread over patties. Top with 1/4 c. buttered bread crumbs and bake at 350° about 1/2 hour until lightly browned and bubbly.

Smothered patties: shape and brown patties as above. Top with 1 can cream of mushroom, celery, or tomato soup thinned with 1/2 c. milk, or barbecue sauce, or gravy. Bake 1/2 hour until bubbly at 350°.

For a quick, easy, delicious mini cheesecake, place a vanilla wafer in each of 18 cupcake liners (foil cups hold their shape best). Beat 8 ounces of cream cheese, 1 egg, 1/2 c. sugar and 1/2 tsp. vanilla until light and fluffy. Divide cheese among cups, about 1 tbsp. per cup. Bake at 375° for 12 minutes and cool completely. Divide a 21 ounce can of cherry pie filling among cups, blueberry pie filling can be substituted. Top with a dollop of whipped topping at serving time.

Apple crisp can be made in a single serving. Peel and slice one apple into a small bowl. Combine 1 tbsp. each of flour, rolled oats, brown sugar, chopped walnuts and 1/2 tsp. margarine. Spoon over apple and sprinkle with cinnamon. Microwave on high 2-3 minutes or until apple is tender.

Of all the big league baseball teams, which one do you think has won the most games over the last 20 years? The answer is the Baltimore Orioles, even though they finished in last place last year. Despite that last place finish in 1988, the Orioles have still won more games than any other major league team in the last 20 seasons.

Did you know that Little League baseball celebrates its 50th anniversary this year. Little League started with just 3 teams and 36 players in Williamsport, Pa., in 1939.

What was the longest auto race ever held? Amazingly, there was once a special endurance auto race in Paris in 1931 that lasted from March 6 to July. The race wasn't even over until the drivers went around that track every day for 133 days!

Poet's Corner

Reverie

Fair England has a magic
Which wonderfully is wrought,
When memory weaves a pattern
Upon the loom of thought.

The scent of lilac blooms in May,
The nightingale's sweet rondelay,
Toy sailboats racing in a row,
While small boys watch with eyes aglow,
The minstrel show at the seaside,
The thrill of that first donkey ride,
The cricket match upon the green,
Is pictured in the summer scene,
The autumn mists like thistle-down,
Drifting gently o'er the town,
The peal of bells at Christmastide,
Across the snow-clad countryside,
But best of all at twilight's glow,
As mother settles down to sew,
Then father reads to children three,
A tale of knights and chivalry.

The spell is deftly woven,
And, oh, what joy it brings,
For when the pattern is complete,
My glad heart homeward wings.

Downtown Street Work Slated to Begin Monday

The $240,000 project to re-construct 3 blocks of Michigan Avenue and its sidewalks is scheduled to begin Monday, April 10.

The City of Grayling project, funded from the city income tax, is expected to be finished before Memorial Day weekend.

Grayling City Manager Jerry Morford said the main contractor, Corvette Construction of Grawn, Mich., will try to maintain a route for through traffic on Michigan Avenue at all times possible. The section of I-75 Business Loop going through downtown is not part of the project and will remain open to traffic.

Parking along the three-block area will be affected at various times. Downtown businesses are starting a campaign to inform customers of nearby parking available. Many businesses are also asking employees to leave the nearby parking for customers. Morford also suggested that anyone close enough leave their car at home and walk to work.

Free Junk Car, Metal Pick-Up Offered Here

April is traditionally 'clean-up time' in Crawford County, and for the month of April C & F Auto Salvage has offered to pick up and haul away junk cars free of charge.

Residents requesting this service should call Chuck Ball, at 348-2864, to arrange for a pick up date. Ball said that he would also pick up all types of scrap metal, so this would be the perfect time to clean out the garage or shed and get rid of that old lawn mower, wheelbarrow, or old engine.

Junk cars do not have to have wheels or tires, but they must be easily accessible and cannot contain garbage.

GGS/FM Fundraiser To Help Hanson Hills

Hanson Hills is planning a Giant Garage Sale and Flea Market Fundraiser in an effort to help preserve the community park.

The fundraiser will help pay for a special millage election on May 16. Two millage renewals were defeated last year, and since no other election was slated for this year, Hanson Hills had to request a special millage election. The special election will cost $10,000 and the county will bill Hanson Hills for it.

The "Giant Garage Sale and Flea Market" will be held 10 a.m.-7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, April 8-9. Admission is free. Vendors pay only $20 for an 8 x 10 space reserved for the entire weekend. Food and beverages will be available - with all taking place at the Hanson Hills recreation area. Call 348-9266 for information.
